Mary Gardens 101

Yellow Flag Iris

In our latest installment for Mary Garden Saturdays, we continue to celebrate Mary's queenship for the month of August with the Yellow Flag Iris! This bright flower has long been associated with Our Lady because its blade-like leaves recall the sorrows that pierced her heart, while its golden blossoms point to her heavenly glory. Just as the iris grows by the water's edge, Mary draws us close to the life-giving waters of her Son. Planting the iris in a Mary Garden becomes both a symbol of her steadfast faith and a reminder of the hope she brings.

Planting Tips:

- Choose a sunny or lightly-shaded spot near damp soil or a pond edge.
- Plant rhizomes in late summer – early fall.
- Keep soil consistently moist for the happiest blooms.

Come spring, you'll be greeted by radiant flowers...a living prayer in your garden.

Have you planted flowers in honor of Our Lady? Let's honor Mary together through the beauty of God's creation and the work of our hands.

WHICH SAINT LIVED IN A CIDER BARREL WHILE CARING FOR THE SICK?

St. John Eudes pioneered devotion to the Two Hearts.

Fr. John Eudes crawled back into the big, empty barrel that formerly held cider. It was almost large enough to live in – although a bit damp and cold at times – while he attended the suffering plague victims in his home diocese in France. He could not stay in safety, he thought, while so many needed the sacraments and a comforting presence.

But the plague was highly contagious, and he did not want to spread it to his fellow religious. So he lived in a barrel outside the city until his work was done. It was but one example of the intense, Christ-like and Mary-like love that burned in his heart.

St. John Eudes was born in 1601 and ordained a priest of the Oratory of Jesus and Mary in 1625. His primary job was to conduct parish missions and he proved himself a zealous and effective preacher.

In 1641, touched by the unfortunate condition of the prostitutes he ministered to in his work, he founded a religious congregation – the Sisters of Our Lady of Charity of the Refuge, now known as the Good Shepherd Sisters – to give shelter and support to these women.

During his time as a missionary, he was disturbed by the lack of formation among the clergy. The idea of dedicated diocesan seminaries was relatively new, having only been introduced by the Council of Trent the previous century. So priestly formation often lacked standards and could vary widely. Fr. Eudes noticed that the good reforms he inspired among the faithful at his missions often disappeared quickly because their parish priests were so poorly formed.

So he decided to do something about it. He founded his own congregation – the Congregation of Jesus and Mary, also known as the Eudists – to establish seminaries for the education of priests.

But perhaps the greatest gift that St. John Eudes gave the Church was his intense devotion to the Sacred Heart of Jesus and the Immaculate Heart of Mary. This devotion formed the core of his spirituality and lit the fire of his missionary zeal. He wrote the first Masses in honor of the Sacred Heart and the Immaculate Heart and the first book about devotion to them. Popes have praised his contributions to devotion to the Hearts, and there is a movement afoot to proclaim him a Doctor of the Church.

Just as St. John Eudes brought clarity and courage to the Church in his time, remind yourself of the love and zeal of the Two Hearts.

"I Just Didn't Think It Mattered Anymore." That's something we hear from people who we have not seen in a while. Not angry. Not disillusioned. Just disconnected. You probably know someone who fits that description. Maybe you don't realize how much it would mean to that person to be invited back – not by a bulletin or a program, but by a person. You. So here's your challenge this week: Tell one Catholic in your life why you still go to Mass – and invite them to join you on Together Sunday, September 14. Worship is best together with all our brothers and sisters.

Together Sunday is more than a moment – it's the beginning of a movement toward becoming a more welcoming and hospitable community. Every Sunday, we gather to worship Christ in the Eucharist – and every Sunday is an opportunity to open our doors and our hearts more widely.

From the Pastor's Desk

My dad frequently makes it his mission to keep the house free of clutter; and while this is a blessing, it sometimes makes finding things a little tricky – they may not be where you expect. Yet his desire to put things in their proper place reminds me that “place” is important for all of us. We notice it at Mass or at the dinner table, where we often choose the same spot. When things are out of place, we feel a certain sense disorder or uneasiness. This same truth applies to the spiritual life. Our hearts and desires must also be “in their proper place.” When they are disordered, we become weighed down by stress, anxiety, and pride. Just as cleaning a home brings peace to our surroundings, so too the life of virtue brings order to our souls. Today’s readings remind us that a key virtue is humility. The Book of Sirach tells us: “Conduct your affairs with humility...Humble yourself and you will find favor with God.” In the Gospel, Jesus advises us not to seek the places of honor, but rather to choose the lowest place. True humility is not about thinking less of ourselves but about recognizing that every good gift comes from God. St. Thomas Aquinas teaches that humility “keeps us within our own bounds” and opens us to God’s grace. This truth comes to life in the Eucharist. At Mass, we approach not mere bread, but Christ Himself, mediator of the new covenant. The way we receive Him – whether with reverence and gratitude, or as if we are entitled – can reflect humility or pride. Bowing our heads and opening our hearts in faith allows us to welcome Him as the most precious of gifts. Today we pray that this Eucharist may not only celebrate the mystery of salvation but accomplish its power in us. May the Lord increase in us the virtue of humility, so that one day we may take our place at the heavenly banquet, where the humble will be exalted.

Fr. Scott Morgan

Notes From Fr. Adam Lewis

Brothers and Sisters, it often happens that I do not include all the material from my notes in Sunday’s homily for the sake of brevity. I want to include some of last Sunday’s notes here for your edification (21st Sunday in Ordinary Time): From the living Tradition:

St. Augustine interprets our Gospel for today as follows:

Yet doubtless there are but few who are saved. You remember a question which was lately set before us out of the Gospel, “Lord,” it was said, “are there few that be saved?” [Luke 13:23] What said the Lord to this? He did not say, “Not few, but many are they who are saved.” He did not say this. But what said He, when He had heard, “Are there few that be saved? Strive to enter by the strait gate.” [Luke 13:24] When you hear then, “Are there few that be saved?” the Lord confirmed what He heard. Through the “strait gate” but “few” can “enter.” In another place He says Himself, “Strait and narrow is the way which leads unto life, and few there be that go thereby: but broad and spacious is the way that leads to destruction, and many there be which walk thereby.”

Regarding human parenting, Pope Francis says:

A good father knows how to wait and knows how to forgive from the depths of his heart. Certainly, he also knows how to correct with firmness: he is not a weak father, submissive and sentimental. The father who knows how to correct without humiliating is the one who knows how to protect without sparing himself. Once I heard a father at a meeting on marriage say: “Sometimes I have to strike the children lightly... but never in the face so as not to humiliate them.” How beautiful! He has a sense of dignity. He must punish, but he does it in a just way, and moves on.

St. Teresa of Avila, “If this is how you treat your friends, no wonder you have so few.”
