From the Pastor's Desk

Have you ever noticed how quick we are to call on God in times of need, but how slow we can be to return to Him with gratitude once our prayers are answered? I'm reminded of the story of a man circling a crowded parking lot, desperately looking for a space. He prayed, "Lord, if you help me find a spot, I'll start going back to Mass and teach the faith to my children. I'll do better, I promise." Just then, he spotted an empty space and quickly said, "Never mind, Lord, I found one myself."

It's a lighthearted story, but it reveals something about the human heart. How often do we pray fervently for God's help, only to forget that every blessing – big or small – comes from Him?

In our Gospel this weekend, we hear about the ten lepers healed by Jesus. Only one returned to give thanks. That one man recognized the gift he had received, and his gratitude opened the way for a deeper encounter with the Lord. Jesus told him, "Stand up and go; your faith has saved you."

The virtue at the heart of this story is humility. Humility clears away the pride and self-reliance that block our faith. It reminds us that we are utterly dependent on God, and that every good gift comes from Him. With humble hearts, we not only receive His grace, but also grow in intimacy with Him.

This week, let us take some time to thank God – for our families, our parish community, our health, and even the simple blessings we often overlook. Gratitude turns our eyes back to the Giver, and it transforms ordinary moments into opportunities for grace. May we be like the one who returned, glorifying God with thankful hearts.

Fr. Scott Morgan

Notes From Adam Lewis

Brothers & Sisters, it often happens that I do not include all the material from my notes in Sunday's homily for the sake of brevity. I want to include some of last Sunday's notes here for your edification (27th Sunday in OT):

The Shroud of Turin:

Four contemporary dating tests: The vanillin dating test of Dr. Raymond Rogers, the two spectroscopic analyses (of Dr. Giulio Fanti, et al), and the compressibility and breaking strength tests (of Dr. Giulio Fanti, et. al) date The Shroud to a time commensurate with the life and crucifixion of Jesus.

Three kinds of extrinsic dating evidence: Testing of pollen samples by Dr. Max Frei, Roman coins on the eyes of the image on The Shroud, and 120 coincidences of blood and fluid stains between The Shroud and the Sudarium (Facecloth of Oviedo) give evidence of a date and location of The Shroud's origin similar to that of Jesus.

The blood stains on The Shroud: The blood stains tell a story very similar to the highly unusual crucifixion of Jesus of Nazareth – they were imprinted on The Shroud before the image was made (the opposite of what would need to be done by a forger).

Formation of the image on The Shroud: The image was not formed by dyes, chemicals, vapors, or scorching. The only known explanation for the formation of the image is an intense burst of vacuum ultraviolet radiation (equivalent to the output of 14,000 excimer lasers) emitted from every three-dimensional point of the body in the Shroud

In sum, there are five major enigmas of The Shroud image: 1. The fact that the image is limited to the uppermost surface of the fibrils and does not penetrate to the medulla of the fibers. This implies that the image was not produced by chemicals or vapors of any kind. 2. The fact that the image is not a scorch (but rather discoloration coming from dehydration). This implies that the image could not have been produced by slowly dissipating radiation (which would have scorched it). 3. The image is a perfect photographic negative in which the image intensity is related to the distance of the cloth from the body. Thus, the image was present regardless of whether the cloth touched the body. This implies that radiation – and not chemicals or vapors – was the source of image formation. 4. There is a double image on the frontal part of the cloth (a more intense image on the front surface – nearest the body – and a less intense image on the back surface – farthest from the body – without any effects between the two surfaces). This implies that the radiation was surrounding both surfaces of the cloth – further implying that the cloth collapsed into a mechanically transparent body. 5. Parts of the frontal image – particularly the hands – show an image which is resolvable into three dimensions, in which the inside skeletal parts of the hand are proportionately related to the surrounding exterior flesh on the hand. This implies that the cloth collapsed into and through a mechanically transparent body.

For those nearing the end of life: May they receive care that respects their dignity as they prepare in hope to share eternal life with Christ; let us pray to the Lord:

An old Irish proverb says, "It is in the shelter of each other that the people live." Indeed, we are created to depend upon one another and walk together in suffering. But when family members or friends approach life's end, we may not know how best to "shelter" them. Here are some concrete ways we can compassionately care for them: usccb.org/end-of-life-care. CATHOLIC RURAL LIFE
Promoting Catholic life in rural America

"Then I looked, and there was a white cloud, and seated on the cloud was one like a Son of Man, with a golden crown on His head and a sharp sickle in His hand." – Revelation 14:14
The Scriptures reminds us that a final harvest is coming, the Lord Himself will gather what has been sown.

We don't know the day or the hour... but we do know this: The choices we make now are preparing us for that moment. Will we be found as the good wheat, bearing fruit for God's kingdom? Or will we be like the chaff? Let us live each day ready for the harvest.

Are you ready to be a part of World Mission Month 2025?
World Mission Sunday is always celebrated on the second to last Sunday, October 19 this year.

This day of solidarity and support for the Church's missionary efforts, however, is just a day within an entire month of prayer and recollection for those answering Jesus' command to "go, therefore, and make disciples of all nations." (Lk 24:47)

This year's theme, chosen by Pope Francis, is inspired by the Jubilee of Hope: "Missionaries of Hope among the Peoples." It is an invitation to bring Christ's light and hope to the world, especially to communities where the Church is young, growing, and often struggling. Join us in this universal mission to spread the Gospel and share the love of Christ!
