FROM THE PASTOR'S DESK

I once heard a homily in which the priest began by talking about the importance of one's chair. In reflecting on that homily, I believe the priest is on to something. For us, especially those of us who are creatures of habit, myself included, place is important. We often find ourselves sitting in the same place each week at Mass; my family and I each have our particular place around the dinner table, perhaps you have a chair or a spot on the couch in which you sit, and no one else dare sit there. Place is important for us; we prefer things to be in their proper place, which brings order to our lives. Today we find ourselves at the pinnacle of the Paschal Mystery: Christ crucified, buried, risen from the dead and now ascended into Heaven where He reigns victorious over sin and death and is seated at the right hand of the Father. The Ascension of the Lord is yet another reminder of the importance of place, and the right ordering that Christ brings to our world. St. Luke, in the Acts of the Apostles records that Jesus, after having conversed with the apostles, "Was lifted up, and a cloud took him from their sight." This great feast is not simply about Christ's place, but also points to our place, as children of God. That we may live a rightly ordered life, where everything is in its proper place, we must follow the example given to us through the Apostles, committing ourselves to prayer, faithful celebration of the Eucharist and a life spent in the company of Mary. Whether you sit in the same place at the dinner table, or have your place in the pews at church, the only place that truly has a lasting effect is Jesus Christ the Lord being given His proper place as Lord and King in our lives. As we make our way to the celebration of Pentecost, let us make it our prayer that Christ would have His proper place in our life, so that filled with the Holy Spirit, we would continue to give joyful witness to the Lord's Resurrection.

Fr. Scott Morgan

NOTES FROM FR. ADAM

HOW TO MAKE A MORAL from the Catechism:

1749 Freedom makes man a moral subject. When he acts deliberately, man is, so to speak, the father of his acts. Human acts, that is, acts that are freely chosen in consequence of a judgment of conscience, can be morally evaluated. They are either good or evil.

The morality of human acts depends on: the object chosen; the end in view or the intention; the circumstances of the action. The object, the intention, and the circumstances make up the "sources," or constitutive elements, of the morality of human acts.

1751 The object chosen is a good toward which the will deliberately directs itself. It is the matter of a human act. The object chosen morally specifies the act of the will, insofar as reason recognizes and judges it to be or not to be in conformity with the true good. Objective norms of morality express the rational order of good and evil, attested to by conscience.

1752 In contrast to the object, the intention resides in the acting subject. Because it lies at the voluntary source of an action and determines it by its end, intention is an element essential to the moral evaluation of an action. The end is the first goal of the intention and indicates the purpose pursued in the action. The intention is a movement of the will toward the end: it is concerned with the goal of the activity. It aims at the good anticipated from the action undertaken. Intention is not limited to directing individual actions, but can guide several actions toward one and the same purpose; it can orient one's whole life toward its ultimate end. For example, a service done with the end of helping one's neighbor can at the same time be inspired by the love of God as the ultimate end of all our actions. One and the same action can also be inspired by several intentions, such as performing a service in order to obtain a favor or to boast about it.

1753 A good intention (for example, that of helping one's neighbor) does not make behavior that is intrinsically disordered, such as lying and calumny, good or just. The end does not justify the means. Thus the condemnation of an innocent person cannot be justified as a legitimate means of saving the nation. On the other hand, an added bad intention (such as vainglory) makes an act evil that, in and of itself, can be good (such as almsgiving).

1754 The circumstances, including the consequences, are secondary elements of a moral act. They contribute to increasing or diminishing the moral goodness or evil of human acts (for example, the amount of a theft). They can also diminish or increase the agent's responsibility (such as acting out of a fear of death). Circumstances of themselves cannot change the moral quality of acts themselves; they can make neither good nor right an action that is in itself evil.

1755 A morally good act requires the goodness of the object, of the end, and of the circumstances together. An evil end corrupts the action, even if the object is good in itself (such as praying and fasting "in order to be seen by men").

The object of the choice can by itself vitiate an act in its entirety. There are some concrete acts - such as fornication - that it is always wrong to choose, because choosing them entails a disorder of the will, that is, a moral evil.

1756 It is therefore an error to judge the morality of human acts by considering only the intention that inspires them or the circumstances (environment, social pressure, duress or emergency, etc.) which supply their context. There are acts which, in and of themselves, independently of circumstances and intentions, are always gravely illicit by reason of their object; such as blasphemy and perjury, murder and adultery. One may not do evil so that good may result from it.

SVDP OF ST. BENIGNUS

SVDP meetings are on Thursdays. On the first and third Thursdays at 5:30p.m. All are welcome.

ST. BENIGNUS SVDP UPDATE

The winter clothing drive has concluded, but the April toilet paper drive is here! A popular item at the pantry - families take one roll per family member when they leave. Your donations helped defer the cost to the SVDP budget and, if we remember correctly, carried us through two months after the last drive. Thank you for your gifts of time, talent or treasure! April Toilet Paper Drive at St. Benignus is extended through May.

St. Benignus NEEDS: Generous truck or van owner with time to drive to and from a Cincinnati warehouse for free baked items to benefit the Greenfield area pantries and blessing boxes. This benefits several churches, the GACC and SVDP. The prior supplier needs to retire from his services, and this will be greatly missed. Please contact the St. Benignus parish office for more details.

BL. ANTONIA MESINA – SAINT OF THE DAY

Blessed Antonia Messina (1919-1935) was one of ten children born to a poor family on the island of Sardinia in Italy. Being the second oldest child, she had to leave school to help with the family chores after her mother became bedridden, a task which she accepted with obedience, humility, and joy. Antonia's mother referred to her daughter as "the flower of my life." Antonia was also active in her parish, joining the Young Women of Catholic Action organization at the age of ten and encouraging others to do the same. On May 17, 1935, while in the forest with a friend gathering firewood, Antonia was assaulted by a teenage boy who attempted to rape her. Her friend ran for help while Antonia bravely defended herself against her attacker. The young man, unable to achieve his goal due to her continuous resistance, brutally attacked Antonia with dozens of blows with a rock. By the time help arrived, it was too late. Antonia died at the age of sixteen. The entire town accompanied her body to the site of her burial. She is considered a martyr of sexual purity and was beatified by Pope St. John Paul II in 1987. Her story has been likened to that of St. Maria Goretti. Blessed Antonia Messina is the patron of rape victims. Her feast day is May 17th.
